This one day certificated course is designed for duty holders and all staff and engineers concerned with the operation and management of water systems in buildings and who may be appointed as a Responsible Person, Duty Holder or those involved in any form of control measures such as flushing, temperature monitoring etc. The course provides delegates with knowledge about the Legionella bacteria and the skills to manage Legionella in building water systems. This course will also benefit plumbing engineers in the course of their duties as Monitoring/Remedial Engineers and to add to their competence.

This course incorporates all the NEW CHANGES TO HSG 274 Part 2 and the ACOP L8 4th Addition November 2013 as well as the NEW HTM 04-01

This is also an excellent opportunity to refresh and catch up on what has changed and added to the regulations and guidance now in operation.
